

Wisconsin AHEC Community Health INTERNSHIP Program

a statewide summer 8-week paid opportunity to learn and work in a local public health setting

June 5 – July 28, 2017

Wisconsin AHEC invites you to participate in the Community Health Internship Program (CHIP): a paid internship program for undergraduate and graduate students interested in community health.

Interns are placed throughout the state in various locations including public health departments, community health centers, and other community organizations. CHIP mentors provide support and facilitate shadowing opportunities to help interns gain an understanding and appreciation of the broad range of public health activities undertaken at the local level. Interns work full-time for 8 weeks and participate in webinars/training sessions about community health principles. Academic credit may be possible depending on your degree program.

Highlights and examples of recent CHIP project themes are:

- Grassroots efforts to engage ethnically diverse, low-income community members
- Chronic disease prevention: community physical activity promotion campaign
- Environmental health programs: sampling and analysis of beaches, pools and wells
- Local policy and program development: conduct community health assessments
- Health education: training curriculum for day care providers
- Improving access to healthcare services: development of a free clinic
- Marketing and communication: implementation of social media and videos
- Research: survey design, focus groups, statistical methods, literature searches
